bvh files are fine. Is there a way to get around this issue? A: After digging deeper in my.blender files, I found a problem in my file path. It seems that my file paths are something like this: Example: /folder/file.blend To make it work, I had to change my file paths to this: /folder/file/file.blend I don't really know why this happened, but when I changed the files, everything worked fine. Q: What should I do about this missing file I installed an app from xcode and I didn't install it. Now I can't get it to run. I deleted the app using finder, then reinstalled it but still no luck. The file in question is this /Users/timcliff/Library/Developer/Xcode/DerivedData/TravelKeeper-eqqqtaknppxbktxcsxptijodk/Build/Products/Debug-iphonesimulator/AppDelegate.app/Plugins/THTabsControllerPlugin_1.0.0.xip/ThTabsControllerPlugin.xcdatamodeld I've tried deleting the app out of the app center and redownloading it and redownloading the plugin and redownloading xcode but still no luck. What should I do? If you didn't install the plugin, there is no app to delete. This file is generated as part of the build, which will occur every time you build and run your project, even if you didn't install the plugin. You have to be in the root directory of your project and run `xcodebuild -showsdk` to see a summary of your build, including which Plugins were installed.

Alternatively you could install the plugin using the command line: `git clone cd ThTabsControllerPlugin` `/Applications/Xcode.app/Contents/SharedFrameworks/DVTFoundation.framework/Versions/A/Resources/installPlugin.sh` Will special regions available in Google Earth Pro 7 be available in Google Earth Engine? I have a project where I would like to use
